Kassie Mowry Moves To No. 1 With $73,000 Rodeo Houston Championship

By Tanya Randall

Thanks to Rodeo Houston's increased payout, Kassie Mowry became the first barrel racer in WPRA history to cross the $100,000 mark by March.

The defending WPRA World Champion and her great horse Force The Goodbye ("Jarvis") left Rodeo Houston, held March 6-23, with $73,000 of the $281,500 barrel racing purse to sit No. 1 in the WPRA World Standings with $107,428.

"I did tell Jarvis if he won the short go at Houston I definitely would not run him at Austin," Mowry said. "It's hard not to get on him because he won it last year. He just gives me a shot every time. I was kidding around, but I have to hold my promise now!"

To win the title, Mowry and Jarvis snuck by four-time WPRA World Champion Hailey Kinsel and a well-rested DM Sissy Hayday, 14.50 to 14.52 in the Championship Shootout.

"He must be faster than I realize," Mowry said of Jarvis. "He always surprises me on some runs, like how he did at Houston. I just felt like we weren't running a .5. There were mistakes. He was bouncy being last out on the ground. It always shocks me when he does that."

Although Jarvis, last year's leading derby horse, has met every challenge Mowry has placed before him, she wasn't expecting him to excel at Houston.

"I honestly didn't think I had a first-place horse there," she said. "My main concern was having a sound horse at the end of it. It's grueling to get through Houston with that many runs in that kind of arena. They run up the alley way and see that wide open arena and they can't see the first barrel. It's really tricky."

Mowry said it wasn't about ground being problematic, which she noted was safe this year, but more so the setup in general.

"A horse like him in a wide open pen like that can really get to running and expose themselves in the turn," she said. "I just really tried to keep him reeled in."

Her concern with safety stemmed from injuring Famous Ladies Man ("Emmitt") there two years in a row.

"That's why I was in practice every morning," she said. "That's why I had Jarvis so under my thumb. I didn't want him to get hurt. It cost me a whole year on Emmitt."

At Rodeo Houston, the 40 contestants compete in one of five Super Series, basically a three-round rodeo within a rodeo. The top four contestants by money won advance from their Super Series into one of two Semifinal Performances. The top four from each semifinal advance to the Champion Round while the remaining contestants get funneled in one of two Wildcard Rounds. The fastest runner from each Wildcard also advanced to the Championship Round.

All 10 contestants in the Championship Round are guaranteed a check with the top four advancing to the $140,000 Championship Shootout.

Mowry and Jarvis earned $5,000 to be the second richest team out of Super Series III. They were second in the first round with a 14.78 but failed to place in the second round after Jarvis got overaggressive from the alley.

"My second run, he got away from me, and we were a 15.0," she said. "He didn't really do anything when I asked him!"

"I did a lot more pulling on him than I normally do but I needed him to respond when I did pull. He doesn't have the best face. He can be strong. The bit I run him in is very, very mild, so I really needed to work on his response time to me trying to help him."

For her last run in her Super Series, Mowry made a bit change and won the round in 14.69. Ever since his futurity year, Jarvis had run in mild Myler gag with a Billy Allen mouthpiece, but in morning practice, she grabbed a mullen-mouth Petska, one of the few bits she had in her trailer.

"I didn't want to put that on him, but I had to because I needed more control because I didn't want him getting hurt," she explained. There was only one downside, she knew the bit change would only work for one run. "I knew I didn't have another run in that bit. I knew that was it."

When Mowry went home to Dublin, Texas, she worked on Jarvis' responsiveness.

"I came home and did more work, more stopping, more collecting, lots of backing up and getting off my hands," she said. "I ran him back in my Semifinal run in the Myler."

Mowry also opted to run CP He Will Be Epic on opening night in Rodeo Austin rather than Jarvis, who won the rodeo last year, because she wanted to keep him tuned for Houston.

"I wanted his mindset to be on Houston," she said. "I know at Austin horses really anticipate and back off there. I didn't want to be really pushing him up into the walls. It would be the very opposite of Houston, so I did keep him home and work on my collection."

Mowry also used the 6 a.m. practice sessions before each run to keep Jarvis in hand.

"I never really even got him into a lope," Mowry said. "I would lope some circles in the arena for warm up in the morning. I would go through the pattern at a walk and trot, a handful of times, and stop. I stopped him a lot. I guess now it's an unpopular method, but it worked for me.

"(It was) just backing him off my hands, because it is so wide open, and the ground isn't super forgiving especially if they get to free running. It's not going to hold them in their turns if they get strung out."

As the rodeo progressed, Jarvis increasingly understood the assignment, winning their semifinals in 14.65.

The biggest test of Mowry's training would be on Sunday with the possibility of two runs. In the Championship Round of 10, they squeaked into the Shootout finishing fourth by .03 ahead of two-time Rodeo Houston Champions Jordon Briggs and Famous Lil Jet.

"I think I would have had an easier time on him had it been the way it used to be with a Standard Pattern out in the middle of it," Mowry mused. "He would have had time lock on to it, have time to look around but still engage for the barrel. Now, they look (in the arena) and Bam! The barrel is there! Things happen really fast even though it's so wide open.

That's unlike any arena we run at ever. He's never run in an arena like that ever. It's hard to prepare for."

Thanks to the Houston victory, Mowry can focus on training futurity horses and making her rodeo count. It takes a minimum rodeo count of 25 to be eligible to enter the National Finals Rodeo. Mowry currently has eight in the bank—the 2024 WPRR World Finals, the 2024 Stockyard Championship Rodeo (her last NFR prep run), Jackson, Mississippi, and the Texas Swing Rodeos in Odessa, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Houston and Austin. She's currently placing and advancing at Rodeo Austin on Will and will finish her spring rodeos at San Angelo, Texas, until the Fourth of July run.

Mowry also has Emmitt on his way back into fighting shape.

“I’ve never ever had a 10-year-old barrel horse,” she quipped. “Now I have two of them! Like, ‘Wow! I have options when I go somewhere!’ It’s so cool to know which pens they like, and they’ve been there once or twice now. It makes it easier for me to pick and choose and make a plan.”

Hello Houston

Rodeo Houston has always had a significant impact on the WPRA World Standings. The biggest mover was Hailey Kinsel, who jumped to No. 5 in the World with $38,655.

Kinsel picked up $750 on TR Judges Doll before finishing the rodeo DM Sissy Hayday, who was returning to competition following a pulled muscle during her ninth round win at the 2024 National Finals Rodeo.

Acey Pinkston, daughter of 2005 NFR Champion Liz Pinkston, jumped to 10th in the standings with $29,351. She qualified for Rodeo Houston by winning the Fort Bend County Fair & Rodeo in Rosenberg, Texas, last October.

The $10,000 Lisa Lockhart won at Rodeo Houston has her just outside the Top 15 in 15th with $22,478.

Defending Rodeo Houston Champion Leslie Smalygo won her Super Series and was the biggest money winner not to make the Championship Shootout with $13,500 won. She’s now No. 21 with $19,820.

Jet Makes Dinero For Sara Cheeney at C-N Futurity

By Tanya Randall

Jet Makes Dinero ("Gus"), trained and ridden by Sara Cheeney for Darla Miller, swept the $19,000-plus added Open Futurity and $10,000-added Incentive Futurity at the 15th Annual C-N Futurity, held March 21-23 in Tulare, California. The dual victories, plus open carryover earnings, totaled $7,307.

"It's a great futurity," said Cheeney. "People should really check it out. They're really trying to grow their program and add more stallions to it."

Cheeney and Gus won the first round in 17.449 and topped the second with a 17.298 for a winning aggregate of 34.747. They were the very first and last to run each day at draw position No. 1.

"That's not always my favorite spot," chuckled Cheeney. "He made a really solid run in the first round. He felt really on point. The second round, he was running a little bit harder. He was bottom of the ground, dead last out, but I think I'm lucky the ground was a little bit deeper because he was running pretty hard. It wasn't his most correct run, but he never quit moving his feet and it worked out for him."

Miller, a longtime client of Cheeney's, purchased Gus as a yearling from his breeders Jeff and Andrea of Busby Quarter Horses. He is by 10.9 million dollar sire Blazin Jetolena out of Dinero-makinmefamous, by six-time WPRC World Champion Sire PC Frenchmans Hayday. Dineromakinmefamous, out of the Dash Ta Fame mare Rebs Little Fame, is a sister to Kathy Petska's California Circuit Champion Dineromadefamous ($183,116 QData).

Gus had thirty days of riding as a 2-year-old, but didn't do much between that time and when he was sent to Cheeney late in his third year.

"He's probably one of the easiest colts I've been on," she said. "I just hopped on him and away we went!"

Gus started his competitive career at the early January futurities at the Southern Buckeye Equestrian Center in Arizona.

"He did alright," Cheeney said. "He ran some mid-17s over there (on the WPRC Standard Pattern). Then, the second round of the Royal Crown (in the same arena), he ran a (17).3. He's been picking up ever since, just making a little bit more solid run every time."

Cheeney, who trains in Pinedale, Wyoming, during the summer and Surprise, Arizona, in the winter, is currently laying over at her parents' place outside of Paradise, California, for April's Northwest Futurity Run in Washington State.

Blaise Wheeler Pockets $17,355 at GTBRA's Equinety Perry Cup

By Tanya Randall

Newlywed Blaise Wheeler left the GTBRA's Equinety Perry Cup, held March 21-22 in Georgia, with $17,355 won on four head.

"First, second and third on Friday helped out a bunch," said the Summitt, Mississippi, barrel racer. "The Good Times do pay out. It's nice having races worth running our good horses at."

Her biggest winner was Plea Barrgain ("MJ"), an 8-year-old Judge Cash, Dash Ta Fame gelding, with $7,957.

"He was consistent," said Wheeler. "He won second the first day and third the next day."

Wheeler purchased MJ in December 2023 after watching his trainer Carlos Renato run him at the big shows.

"What got me wanting him was his video from Ardmore his futurity year," she explained. "Carlos came down the alley over-and-under-ing to the first barrel. I like to kick and pull. The more you can whip, the more you can kick, the more you can go pi ya, the more I like them."

It took three years to get him bought and when she finally got to ride him, he was the complete opposite of what she was expecting.

"He is the hottest horse I've ever had," she laughed. "Just now a year and three months later, I'm getting to where I'm starting to like him and he's starting to respect me. We are just now getting on the same page."

Making the effort to go ride with Renato before last year's Breeders Challenge Finale was the difference maker.

"Everybody does things different," she said. "What I was doing wasn't working, so I wanted to go out there and see how Carlos was doing it. I guess I'm a visual learner because I had talked to him over the phone, but it finally started happening. I regret not going earlier."

Wheeler's standout SBWFeelinThePressure ("Gauge"), a 6-year-old No Pressure On Me, JL Dash Ta Heaven gelding, won $5,351 in spite of hitting a barrel on Saturday.

"It's hard to say he's not my favorite because I've won so much on him," she said.

Her homebred BR The Tonka Taxi ("Tonka"), an 11-year-old Dash Ta Fame, Dr Nick Bar stallion, won $3,406 on one run. They hit a barrel on Saturday.

"I used to run his mom," said Wheeler, who credited Karen Manning for making him a barrel horse. "He took a long time to come into himself, but now that he knows that he's a barrel horse, he's a lot of fun."

"He runs at a lot of jackpots. There aren't many jackpots around here that he doesn't win. When I take him places, he'll normally tell you right away if he likes a place or not. Normally, the bigger places, he doesn't like. He just won't run. He always, always turns—he's a Dash Ta Fame—but sometimes he just backs off and acts like he's scared."

Wheeler hit a barrel on Tonka on Saturday to win a lot more.

"I told Brian (her husband) if you hit a barrel on Tonka you know it's your fault," she quipped. "You messed up!"

Newcomer The Goodbye Guy ("Swagger"), owned by Scott Duke, won $641. Duke purchased the 5-year-old The Goodbye Lane, Frenchmans Guy gelding from his breeder Catherine Asmusen in January. The pairing is still a work in progress.

Pink and Ruby Buckle Programs, Equine Network and Lazy E Arena Announce Long-Term Partnership

Equine Network and Lazy E Arena have signed a landmark 10-year partnership to host the Ruby Buckle Barrel Race and the Pink Buckle Barrel Race & Horse Sale.

This extends the long-established relationship between the industry's leading entities and guarantees that Guthrie, Oklahoma, will continue to host these world-class events.

"The Lazy E team is committed to excellence," said Chad Beus, co-founder of Pink and Ruby Buckle. "They've proven it time and time again, and we're excited that they've committed to investing in the expansion of their facility. That will complement our formats and horse sales, making the E the perfect home for our events, which bring the heart and soul of the horse industry to Guthrie."

With a combined $5.95 million guaranteed minimum payout for the two 2025 events alone, these barrel races provide unrivaled competitions and purses. Lazy E's investment into growing the Western sports in a family-friendly environment includes the construction of a new, 30,000 square foot events center that will cater to horse sales and trade shows, a new covered arena, five new horse barns that will provide an additional 426 new Priefert stalls and a shower, restroom and laundry facility.

"Our goal isn't to be the biggest; our goal is to be the best fit for the events that call the E home," said Dan Wall, Lazy E vice president and general manager. "We needed to add these new amenities to stay up with the growth of our tremendous events."

The Lazy E works tirelessly to prepare world-class footing for these top-tier events that can withstand the volume of runs and remain consistent from the first run to the last run each day—and from day one to day 10. With acres of dedicated RV spots that provide ample space to camp while still being close to your horses, and a large, covered warm-up arena, the championship caliber of facilities and competition are a match.

"The Pink and Ruby Buckle events originated at the E, and we've been privileged to watch them grow into the events they are today," said Wall. "They have completely changed the landscape of the barrel racing industry for everyone, and we appreciate the opportunity to continue to play a small role in their success for the next 10 years."

HEADIN' FOR HOME

by Sherry Morrison // Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

In your walk with the Lord, do you remember when you read the Bible all the way through from Genesis to Revelation for the first time? And didn't skip anything? LOL! 1973 for me.

Do you recall what the first verse you memorized was? The verse that meant so much to you? Mine was Phil. 4:6. DON'T WORRY ABOUT ANYTHING! Do you remember when you knew that the old man was dying/dead and the new man had begun? If you didn't know that, it IS a possibility. Eph. 4:22-24.

It was easy for me to recognize that time. It was the day I didn't feel like I had to put on boxing gloves just to have a normal conversation. I was always so CONFRONTATIONAL! Oh yeah. What a relief.

Do you know who prayed you into the kingdom of God? I don't. I've asked around, looking for likely people who may have prayed for me, and to date, they have all said no. Grandma's, grandpa's, aunts, uncles. Nope. So, someone out there loved me enough to pray for me when I was a heathen. I know when I get to heaven, I will meet them. I will thank them. Till then, I am returning the favor and praying for people to have the same chance I had. How about you?
