Brittany Pozzi Tonozzi & Sir Epic Rule Rodeo Austin

By Tanya Randall

Three-time World Champion Barrel Racer Brittany Pozzi Tonozzi capped off a tumultuous month of March with a $22,247 championship at Rodeo Austin, held March 15-29 in the capital city of Texas.

"This month has been the biggest roller coaster of my entire life," said the Lampasas, Texas, barrel racer. She lost her father Randy Pozzi on March 2. "I have not taken a step back from barrel racing, but I've definitely had my mind on other things. Luckily, it didn't affect the horses, and they did their jobs."

Just a week after losing her father, Tonozzi surprised fans at Rodeo Houston with a stellar performance aboard Cashin In On Fame ("Bobby"), an Australian-bred gelding that belongs to Tamara Walker and Molly Harper.

"I didn't have anything else to run there, and Bobby was not going to make me look stupid," said Tonozzi. The grandson of Dash Ta Fame out of an Australian-bred barrel mare had placed in a Super Series last year at Rodeo Houston with Lakken Bice. "He's going to turn all the barrels. Did anyone think he was going to do what he did? No."

With just one jackpot under their belts, Tonozzi and Bobby posted what would be the second-fastest time of the entire rodeo and eventually finished third overall, winning $28,250.

"It has been the craziest month of my life," she said. "I was in Turkey and then Houston, planned my dad's funeral the next week, then Austin, then it was Garrett and Tinlee's birthday. It was Garrett's 40th and I had already promised a big shindig. We had 60 people over and a band. Then the short round at Houston the next day and then back to Austin."

In Austin, Tonozzi relied on Sir Epic, owned by Pete Carr and his stepdaughter Morgan Bagnell. The 7-year-old gelding, by 2.4 million dollar sire JL Sirocco, out of the Epic Leader mare So Very Epic, won the first round with the fastest run of the rodeo, a 15.08, took second in the semifinals with a 15.22 and won the clean-slate Finals with a 15.1.

Tonozzi said the setup in Austin with its close-feeling walls suited Sir, whose biggest weakness is his tendency to look around some.

"If you go back to his futurity year and watch his runs with Kassie (Mowry), he'll run through the gate with his ears pricked," she said. "You're like, 'Oh God! He doesn't see the barrels. He's not going to turn.' Then, he does. Sometimes, he gets a little strung out, but he's just a baby. I've heard of some struggles with him outside but hopefully we've built enough of a foundation inside that it will give us something to go on.

"That's one thing I've always stressed in my program, running those horses in situations they can succeed in," she said. "That builds their confidence, which builds your confidence, and then you can move on and start venturing outside, wherever they're weak. Having them solid where they're good, helps you build elsewhere."

Making the win extra special was having her husband and daughter ter there too. Her husband, a header, also made the short round in the team roping with heeler Josh Patton and finished sixth in the average.

“It was really cool that Garrett and I both made the short round,” she said. “Tinlee is all about riding her horse and being back there in the back. Right when I was about to run, she was back there with Andrea (Busby) and told Andrea, ‘My heart just jumps every time I hear them call her name! I get so nervous!’ That was just the cutest, sweetest little thing.”

At the time of this interview, Tonozzi was getting ready to run Sir in the first round of slack at San Angelo, Texas. They easily moved into second round of performances after splitting fourth.

After having all her rodeo horses go out with injury in 2024, Tonozzi’s been pleasantly surprised with how her winter run is going.

“Who would have ever thought I would have won third at Houston?” she mused. Sir, too, had stepped up in a big way with a fourth-place finish at San Antonio. “When your stars align, I’ve learned to just go with it and not fight it. You definitely can’t plan for it. As soon as you make a plan, your plan gets ruined. It’s best to take it day to day.”

She currently sits No. 2 in the WPRCA World Standing with $79,543.

Jada Haken & Flirtbug Dominate Barrel Bash Select Stallion Stakes Futurity

By Tanya Randall

Accountant and graduate student Jada Haken and her home-grown mare Flirtbug swept the 123-entry, $60,000-added Select Stallion Stakes Futurity, hosted by Barrel Bash, March 28-30, in Chickasha, Oklahoma.

“She’s had it in her the entire time,” said the 24-year-old Haken. “I’ve just been patiently waiting. Something has always come up. It just had never been her time. Last weekend it was.

The win across the board paid the Pawnee, Oklahoma, team $22,623. Their $3,912 carryover earnings, which included Sunday’s Open 1D victory, pushed their total to $26,535. They’ll also include the $7,600 awarded to Flirt’s sire Famous Bugs, in their lifetime earnings.

“I’m so glad it worked out the way it did,” she said. “I’m glad it never worked out the way I wanted it to for so many years because to get the win on my first raised baby that I trained with my parents there to watch me is something that I’ll cherish for the rest of my life. God’s timing is always perfect. I hope this is just the beginning of our story.”

Haken, along with her parents Brett and Jana, raised Flirt, the first foal out of Arabella Ivory, a daughter of Ivory James. Arabella Ivory was originally purchased as a barrel horse for Haken, but an old deep digital flexor tendon injury ended her barrel racing career. After having a successful rodeo career with the Famous Bugs, Lanes Leinster gelding Luthor, picking a stallion for Arabella Ivory was easy.

“We just loved Luthor, so we thought ‘Famous Bugs,’” Haken said. “He had quite the personality and he was so incredibly smart. Bo (Hill, Famous Bugs’ owner) has always been super helpful and so nice. There’s no other choice than Famous Bugs.”

Haken, who had her first futurity horse in 2020, started running Flirt at the BFA World Championships last November in the Open races prior to the aged events. Their first futurity wasn’t until the first of the year at Lone Star Shootout in Hamilton, Texas, where they won the Amateur.

“I knew from the beginning that she was special,” she said, “but you never really know until you send them down the alleyway if they’re going to be able to handle the pressure or not. She is very confident and very mature in the arena.”

They picked up a check in the second round at the Kinder Cup. The following week, they placed second in the second round of the Royal Crown Futurity in Buckeye, Arizona, with a 16.9 on a WPR Standard Pattern.

“This weekend was my very first round win,” said Haken. “I’ve been trying for a long time, but never had the standout horse it takes to win first. I knew my time was coming but I didn’t know if that meant several months or several years later. I knew if I kept working at it I would achieve it.”

After winning the first round in Chickasha in 15.088, Haken and Flirt followed up with a 15.116 that was the fastest futurity run of all on Sunday.

“I never thought about getting the round win in the second go,” she said. “I just wanted to make the same run as I did the day before. I knew Flirtbug had run on her mind, but I asked my mom before I ran if I needed to make any changes because of how ready to go she was. My mom was like, ‘Just trust your horse, trust your training and believe in yourself.’

“When the person went before me, I told myself to just slow down and ride quiet. She made a beautiful run, almost identical to her first go. Flirt said (winning) round one wasn’t enough. She wanted to make it an unforgettable weekend for me and my parents. She won the round and the open and my first ever futurity champi-

TRAINING/CONDITIONING REGIMEN: “She’s turned out in a big pasture. She loves to run, so she keeps herself in shape. I only ride her, 10 to 15 minutes. I’m lucky if I ride her two times a week, and I usually do it after school. We’re just working the pattern slowly.”

Haken got her love of horses from her mother.

“My dad has nothing to do with horses, but he is the biggest supporter,” she said. “My mom grew up showing, and she barrel raced a little but not a lot. A lot of people think she doesn’t know how to ride, but she’s my secret weapon.”

On Sunday morning, her mother snuck in a ride on Flirt. “She said she was going to go walk her around that morning,” laughed Haken. “Andre (Coelho) told on her. He took a video of her, and she was loping around on Flirt. He told me if I won, he was going to post that video.”

Her mom told her she was riding the “fresh” out of Flirt. “She really was fresh,” Haken added. “A storm came in and we had hail Saturday night, and it got pretty cold. She was fresh on Sunday, so I knew she was going to run. I was hoping we had the turning part down right! She made a beautiful run.”

Haken estimates that Flirt has won about $45,000 thus far.

“What’s cool about her is she’s only had about 15 runs,” she said.

“She has the perfect style. She runs around a barrel. She’s a little horse but she doesn’t care if it’s big, small or the barrels are on the fence. She doesn’t care. She knows her job and is going to work. I’ve never had a horse like her that loves it as much as she does.”

HEADIN' FOR HOME

by Sherry Morrison // Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

My mom was a master at pulling April Fool's jokes! Salt in the sugar bowl. Plastic wrap on the toilet. She would get so tickled! I think it was her favorite "holiday".

Me, not so much. But what is funny to me is when someone is telling me something around this time of year, and I think it's an April Fool's joke. . . . .and it's NOT! There I am, batting my eyes in unbelief that they could really, truly, honestly, believe that what they are telling me IS THE TRUTH! YIKES!

You know, even the devil tries to make us believe that what he is saying is the truth, and it's nothing but lies. He will tell us that we aren't going to be healed. That we aren't going to make it financially. That God is punishing us when bad things happen. Those are lies.

We fight that kind of nonsense by knowing what the Bible says about each of those things. Not what Gramma said it says, but what is actually written in the Word. 2 Cor. 11:14 tells us that the devil disguises himself as an angel of light. So, if possible, he will deceive us. I say no! How about you?
