Chayni Chamberlain & Dat Flowin Bunny Sweep Ogden 8 & Under

By Tanya Randall

Seven-year-old Chayni Chamberlain and Dat Flowin Bunny ("Flo Jo") swept the competition at the 29th Annual Corky Ogden 8 & Under World Championship Barrel Race, held August 9-11 in Andrews, Texas. Chamberlain collected $681 plus a trophy saddle and slew of prizes for the victory.

Corky Ogden started in the event in 1985 due to the lack of opportunities for the youngest of competitors. After his death in a farming accident in 1986, his son Randy and his wife, Lisa, a National Finals Rodeo qualifier and aged event champion trainer, took up the production of the event with the help of many family members and friends over the years. It's also won the few events that all the participants walk with something—from trophy halters to crisp $20 bills. Thanks to the precedence set by the Ogden family, today nearly all of the youth rodeo associations have an 8-and-under class. "It's a wonderful event that they host," said Chayni's mother Callie. "It's been a great event for a long time. Everyone gets so excited when those little ones start running."

Chayni's championship also marked a landmark for the event. She and her mother are now the first mother-daughter duo to have won the event. Callie won her title in 1991.

The Ogden 8 & Under always brings some of the most talented—and most tolerant—of equine athletes to the foreground. This year's field also included Kelly Maben's former National Finals Rodeo arena record holder Mystic Angela, who carried her nephew Luke Carpenter, Corky Ogden's great-grandson, to a fourth-place finish.

Chayni has no shortage of horsepower either with her mother's former pro rodeo winner Flo Jo. She started riding the 12-year-old gelding almost a year ago.

"Our last run together was (the pro rodeo in) Hugo, Okla., a little over a year ago," said Chayni's mom Callie. "I had hurt my back, so we were done for a while. He was out in the pasture. I thought there was no need to let him sit, might as well let Chayni try him on. It worked out pretty good."

Callie said she was "very, very worried" at Chayni and Flo Jo's first competition together.

"Her first outing was back at Glen Rose right at the New Year," she explained. "I was very worried. He basically loped the pattern and I knew right there that he was going to do everything she asked him to do. He wasn't going to go any faster unless she asked him to."

Bred by Larry and Mary Ellen Flow of Stamford, Texas, Flo Jo is by Whose Dat Bunny out of Hota Moore, by He Hota. Susan Martin of Aspermont, Texas, started the gelding, that was originally purchased for Callie's mother Jeane Bolin.

"I was working at the time when she called and said, 'I think he's too much horse!' So we traded horses and went from there. She'll say he'll definitely just go as fast as you want because he's definitely babysat her a time or two," chuckled Callie, who noted that her mother and grandmother were both on hand to see Chayni's win.

At Andrews, Chayni and Flo Jo placed in the 1D in Friday night's Open before sweeping the two rounds and finals in the 8 & Under with runs of 15.295, 15.050 and 15.102.

"Her first run was just an honest, clean run," said Callie. "Her second run, he fired really hard; she rode really good. She had a little bobble going into her second barrel or there was a possibility that she could have been one of the sub-15 runs. The short round run, she just sat in the middle of him and rode him like she's supposed too."

AQHA Provides the Latest Updates on the Cloning Lawsuit

On August 12, the parties appeared for a hearing before Judge Mary Lou Robinson for the purpose of arguing on the issues of the plaintiffs' claims for attorney fees and for equitable relief in the form of an injunction requiring AQHA to register clones and their offspring. The plaintiffs have requested an award of nearly $900,000 in attorney fees and seek an injunction requiring the unconditional registration of clones and their offspring in the AQHA registry.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Judge Mary Lou Robinson announced that she was going to enter an injunction requiring AQHA to register clones and their offspring. She instructed the parties to confer and determine if any agreements concerning what rules would be necessary for this relief were needed, and instructed the parties to file any briefs on the subject no later than Wednesday August 14.

As for attorney fees, the Judge did not render any ruling. She further instructed the plaintiffs to produce all attorney fee billing statements by the end of the day and ordered that AQHA enter any briefs on the subject of plaintiffs' requested award of attorney fees by August 14, 2013. Finally, the Judge ordered the plaintiffs to submit proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law by the August 14 deadline as well.

"As announced on August 1, and referenced in its August 9 Brief on Equitable Relief and Attorney Fees, AQHA will continue to take any and all necessary legal action in seeking to have the verdict of the jury and any judgment entered by the Court in favor of plaintiffs reversed," said AQHA Executive Vice President Don Treadway. "AQHA will continue to fight for its members' rights."

It is expected that following the entry of a judgment in favor of plaintiffs AQHA will proceed with filing a Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law in which AQHA will request the Court enter a take nothing judgment in favor of AQHA based upon the fact that the jury's verdict was not supported by the evidence entered at trial. Such a motion is due no later than 28 days following the entry of a signed final judgment by the Court. Should the court not grant AQHA's Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law, then AQHA will file a notice of appeal thus beginning the appellate process. AQHA will continue to update its membership and directors with developments in the case.

As a matter of background, on July 28, a 10-person jury in the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Texas, Amarillo Division, ruled in favor of the plaintiffs, Abraham & Veneklasen Joint Venture et al. in their antitrust suit against AQHA. The plaintiffs alleged that AQHA Rule REG106.1, which prohibits the registration of cloned horses and their offspring in AQHA's breed registry, violates federal and state anti-trust laws. Although the jury found that AQHA violated antitrust laws, it awarded no damages to the plaintiffs despite the plaintiffs demand for $5.7 million dollars in damages at trial.

At today's hearing, which lasted a little more than two hours, the counsel for AQHA urged the court to deny the plaintiffs' requests and to enter judgment as a matter of law in favor of AQHA due to plaintiffs': failure to establish the existence of a conspiracy to prohibit registration of clones and their offspring; failure to establish the existence of a properly defined antitrust market consisting of "elite" Quarter Horses; failure to establish that Rule REG106.1 has caused any harm to the alleged market through a constraint on the supply of "elite" Quarter Horses; failure to establish that Rule REG106.1 constitutes an unreasonable restrain on trade, such that the anticompetitive effects of the rule outweigh the legitimate justifications for the rule; failure to establish that AQHA possesses monopoly power in the alleged market; and failure to establish that Rule REG106.1 constitutes exclusionary conduct that is inconsistent with competition on the merits and that has the potential for making a significant contribution to AQHA's monopoly power.

Counsel for AQHA further argued that to the extent the plaintiffs were entitled to any injunctive relief, which AQHA denied, then such relief should be limited to only the registration of cloned mares. More specifically, AQHA argued that any equitable relief be limited so as to only allow for the registration of cloned mares that are free of genetic diseases and that such clones be listed in a Clone Supplement for breeding purposes only.

AQHA counsel further argued that, for parentage verification purposes, the mitochondrial DNA profile of the clone must be different than the mitochondrial DNA profile of the original mare and all other previously registered clones of the same mare. Finally, AQHA counsel argued that the registration of the offspring of clones and their descendants be listed in either a Clone Numbered Registry or Clone Appendix registry as determined by AQHA and its members and Stud Book Committee.

AQHA's counsel also argued to the Court that AQHA should retain the authority to craft whatever rules necessary for dealing with the registration of clones as opposed to the plaintiffs' request for an extensive set of new rules dealing with the clone registration issue.

With respect to attorneys' fees, AQHA's attorney argued that the court should deny plaintiffs' request for fees because plaintiffs had not produced legally sufficient evidence at trial to establish an antitrust violation. Further, the jury in its verdict awarded no damages to the plaintiffs. Therefore, should the Court decide to award attorneys' fees then such award should be significantly reduced in keeping with the jury's award of no damages. --Courtesy of the American Quarter Horse Association, www.aqha.com

Callie said the funny part was how nervous she and her husband Casey were while Chayni didn't have a care in the world.

"We were trying not to let her know and trying to keep it from her," she laughed. "She never got nervous. Someone came up to her and told her good luck and she said, 'For what? What are we doing?' She never gets worried. I guess she's so comfortable on him. She was mellow the whole time. You could tell after her run she was pretty calm."

This was the third championship saddle for Chayni in a month's time. She and Flo Jo won the 8 & Under Barrel Racing titles in the American Junior Rodeo Association and High Plains Junior Rodeo Association prior to their Ogden Championship.

For Chayni, who is sponsored by Stephenville Trailers, Pro Equine and her grandparents' Bolin Farm, the championship was just another barrel race. She likes that Flo Jo is fast, fun and easy to ride, but most important of all, "he lets me catch him." Priorities, right?

Conrado & C Four Tibbie Stinson Find Groove at Dash & Dance Futurity

By Tanya Randall

Kelly Conrado and his family's homegrown mare C Four Tibbie Stinson claimed another futurity championship at the $5,000-added Dash & Dash Futurity, held August 9-11 at the Seven Down Arena in Spearfish, S.D. Conrado, Hudson, Colo., and Tibbie collected $3,553 for the victory in the super, tough futurity run on a 13-second course.

"She's a little insecure in a pen that small," said Conrado. "We just tried to keep them smooth. She worked good. She's just super honest. She really waited on me and listened to me. That was nice because the pen was so tiny. She just likes a little more room. 13 seconds is pretty dang small."

Tibbie clocked a 13.789 to place fourth in the first round and came back with a 13.676 to place third in the second en route to the average win.

"I think she was one of the only horses that came back that was faster on her second run that was in the top on the first run," he explained. "I think the horses that were ahead of her on the first run came quite a bit slower on their second run. I was proud that she came back faster on her second run."

The Conrado family raised Tibbie, a 4-year-old daughter of up-and-coming barrel horse sire Eddie Stinson, a son of Dash Ta Fame, out of Little Fancy Granny ("Racey"), by Del Puerto Bill.

"Tibbie works exactly like her mom," said Conrado, who is sponsored by TechMix and has Tibbie on their U-Formula, BlueLite Pellets, Restart and Healthy Oil. "She acts like her. They just work exactly the same. It's amazing how those genetics can be so prolific."

Ironically, Conrado had started Racey in the Seven Down Arena as a 3-year-old. Racey, herself, also won big on the weekend, winning the 9-13 barrels by a full second at the first Little Britches rodeo of the season for Dolly Diodosio. The little mare also won the first round of this year's National Little Britches Finals Rodeo and won Diodosio an all-around saddle.

"It was exciting," said Conrado of watching his favorite horse of all-time run again. "Ivy and I went and watched the first round of the National Little Britches Finals. That mare hadn't been run in about five years. Ivy got her in really good shape for Dolly, and that mare laid down a run like she'd been running every day."

Unfortunately, Racey's run is over as she's too far along in foal to Darkelly, a First Down Kelly stallion that's owned by Conrado and Debbie Mikkelson, to take a chance in the arena.

"We ultrasounded her on Monday and she's four-months in foal to Darkelly, so that's the end of that," Conrado noted.

Meanwhile, Tibbie has a full slate of late summer and fall futurities, starting with the Cornhusker Futurity in Broken Bow, Neb., this weekend.

Ivy, who recently sold her derby horse Kellies Chick to Charlie Cole and Jason Martin for National Finals Rodeo bound Michele McLeod, will run Tibbie at the WPRA Futurity at the World Finals. Tibbie is paid in full to the Pro Elite Sire Incentive and only WPRA card members are eligible for the money. Ivy will get Tibbie permanently after the BFA World Championship Futurity in December.

"We are going to do an embryo out of her early next spring with Darkelly," added Conrado. "Later in the year, Ivy will probably start taking her to a few rodeos to start seasoning her a little bit."

NFR Race Heating Up in Homestretch

By Julie Mankin

The horse race to get into the top 15 this year is shaping up to be tighter than ever. The girls are on a pace now that, if it holds, will mean they'll need almost $10,000 more dollars this year to break 15th place than it took last year when Christy Loflin did it.

Right now if your name is Trula, Jane, Kelli or Sydni, you'd think you have enough money won right now that you practically have the Finals made. But only if this was 2012. Instead, while Churchill, Melby, Tolbert and Blanchard might be holding down the last four slots to get to Vegas, they'll each likely need to earn at least $10,000 more in the next six weeks to hang on.

That's based on the fact that last year during this same week, 15th place had earned $42,689. This year, that figure is $52,032, pulled down thus far by Sydni Blanchard. What will the magic number be on Sept. 30?

If the ladies continue at their the current pace of winning, the number will be around $61,375 (which isn't much over the $60,589 it took in 2011 to be 15th). Or if we use a formula based on the extra money earned simply from now until Sept. 30 last year, then it will be $64,195. Or if you look at the way they piled up the September paychecks in 2011, then it could possibly take $69,134.

Any of those figures has to be looking awfully big to Blanchard – a cowgirl who gathered roughly $50,000 both of the past two years only to miss the cut. In fact, one could surmise that she missed it in 2011 because of the large amount of money Jody Sheffield earned at Houston. This year, Calgary winner Jean Winters has taken that role, leaving one less hole than it seemed was available last year.

Anyway, while it's taking $10,000 extra for 15th place, the middle of the pack have only earned about $7,000 more than last year. And it's hard to imagine anyone possibly ever earning more by mid-August than Brittany Pozzi did in 2012 before turning out for about three weeks.

That's when she amassed an incredible $161,422 to lead the world at this time last year, then took a whopping $43,000 lead all the way into Las Vegas, where Mary Walker surpassed her.

They were two of the four gals who earned six figures in the regular season in 2012. This year, two have already done it again (Cervi and Walker), with four more that could reach $100,000 in the next six weeks.

Who will be in and who will be out in the cold? Basically, Christy Loflin likely has it made in the shade with her $65,000. But Melby, Churchill, Tolbert and Blanchard all need to earn five figures in the next six weeks. Carlee Pierce is not a factor, assuming she's continuing to stay home this fall.

But then there's another tight little bunch with a chance, all of whom need at least $15,000 to breathe easy – including Brenda Mays, Kim Schulze, Annesa Self and Natalie Foutch. For Schulze, as for Sydni Blanchard and Sammi Bessert, the crunch time of late September is like déjà vu. Let's hope at least one of these three can fight her way out of the dreaded 15th-through-20th holes they've landed in each of the past few years in a row.

Regardless, in the words of Christy Loflin, "nobody's weakening!"

Headin' For Home

by Mike Morrison
Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

You've trained your horses to respond to your cues and they wait eagerly for your direction. The barrel horse enters the arena ready to run. The rope horse quivers in the box waiting for the nod. The ranch horse is poised to roll back if a cow breaks and runs.

These horses are eager to please and only need a "go ahead" from you in order to do what you've instructed them to do. It's when they get impatient and jump out and try to do things on their own that they make a mess of things.

It's the same in our lives. We need God's wisdom and timing because He never makes mistakes and if we try to do things without God, we can get into some really big jackpots. Jesus said in John 15:5 that without Him we can do nothing. That's why Scripture tells us to pray about everything we do.

God sees the end from the beginning and He's just waiting to help you. Are you listening? There are times when you just know that something isn't right and you have a real check in your spirit. Other times, when you ask God for wisdom, a great peace will come over you and you can know it's all okay.

We all should welcome direction from God, and correction, too. We need His gentle reining, nudging and cues to help us fulfill the good plan He has for our lives. Jeremiah 29:11 says God wants to give us a future and hope.

It's good to pray Scriptures and one you should pray every day is Proverbs 3:5. Pray it like this: "I trust in the Lord with all my heart and lean not on my own understanding. In all my ways, I acknowledge Him and He is directing my paths!"
