Michelle Alley & Lipstick N Stilletos Go All Out at Caldwell Night Rodeo

By Tanya Randall

Much like their record-breaking standard pattern run at the Ruby Buckle at Lazy E, Michelle Alley and Lipstick N Stiletto's short round winning run at the Caldwell Night Rodeo is going viral.

Holding for dear life was all Alley could do when the 16.2 hand racehorse turned into a 13.2 hand cutting horse at the second barrel. The crowd-thrilling run of 16.83 gave Alley the three-run aggregate championship worth $10,369 at the $25,000-added Idaho rodeo.

"That's not the first time she's done that to me. It's probably like the fourth time and probably won't be the last," chuckled the Madisonville, Texas, based trainer. "One of these days, Magic Seat is probably going to send me a couple and want to sponsor me!"

Stiletto, a 4-year-old mare, is every bit as fast and powerful as her mother Seis Caress ("Saucy"), the Tres Seis mare that took Alley within the cusp of a few National Finals Rodeo qualifications, with an extra shot of extreme athlete from her sire multiple futurity champion RR Mistakelly, a son of Darkelly out of the great producer Mistys Dash Of Fame, by Dash Ta Fame.

"I have to hustle her and push her past the barrels," Alley said of the mare, now owned by Heather Moeller. "I know a lot of people are like, 'Sit down sooner, deeper.' If I sit down a stride before the barrel, we're turning and we're going to drag a barrel over. At a rodeo, like Caldwell where it's a three run average, I know we can make a mistake and still clock, so I told myself 'Just make sure you ride to your spots and get past the barrels.' I have to stay forward and ride to that spot. Well, I did that, and she made that move where she drops and comes back. I just stayed in my moment. It was like slow motion. 'Just hang on! Don't fall off! You're fine!' I could hear (announcer) Randy (Corley) go 'Whoa!!!' I kind of giggled inside... 'It's fine! I'm fine!'"

As if Stiletto herself wasn't challenging enough, Alley has a degenerative disease in her back to increase the degree of difficulty. Her busy week and some ground trouble didn't do it any favors either.

Alley started her week with first round slack at Caldwell on Tuesday morning, where she split second in the round with Andrea Busby and last year's winner Jets Top Gun with a run of 17.14. She was supposed to have her second run in the second slack, an hour after the first, but was able to get a trade into Friday night's performance.

"After I did so good on my first run, my good friend Kellie Jorgenson offered to trade me to Friday night, so I didn't have to run her back-to-back," she explained. "I was at the end of the first slack and would have been at the beginning of the second, bottom of the ground both runs in that deep stuff. Not that she couldn't handle it, with her being so young I was afraid that she would think she didn't do good on her first run ... and I didn't want her to feel that way." Their next run was at the Gooding Pro Rodeo in Idaho on Danny Thomason's magnificent ground.

"The ground is amazing there and has been for years," said Alley. "It's one of my favorite rodeos. I drew top of the ground, and I messed up! I tipped the first. I dropped to one hand too early, and she turned on top of it. I was really mad at myself, but it is what it is."

They didn't fare any better at Moses Lake, Washington, where Stiletto slipped to her hip and belly trying to leave the first barrel. Although the mare tried to run on to the second barrel, Alley pulled up and rode out of the arena.

Alley, along with fellow competitors Stephanie Fryar and Sara Winkelman, made a very quick five hour-plus drive back to Caldwell for their second run.

“We all pulled in about bronc riding time during the perf,” she said. “There were eight or 10 bronc riders, six breakaway ropers and one calf roper and then us. I wasn’t stressed. I knew I’d make it. You have to tell yourself to take a breath and not be rushing. You don’t want to have that energy transfer over to your horse and then they’re all flustered – ‘Why is my jockey being all crazy!’”

Alley found herself once again on the bottom of the deep ground in the performance after a turnout. She was originally seventh, first out after the drag at halfway, but the turnout with the condensed drag rule in place meant she was now sixth and back on the bottom of the ground. Stiletto still powered through with a 17.16 which took third in the second go and made her second in the aggregate on two runs going into the short round.

While Stiletto obviously came through her fall in Moses Lake cleanly, Alley did not.

“I didn’t feel it at the time but sitting in the truck for five and half hours...,” she said. “That night after I made my second run at Caldwell I couldn’t bend over. I had to squat down to do stuff.”

Although she felt a little better in the morning, Alley took advantage of the Justin Sports Medicine Team before the short round.

“I strained the muscle that stabilizes the back,” she said. “They did a bunch of stretching and trigger points, stem (therapy) and ice. I was in there about an hour and it dang sure helped. That didn’t help my riding in the short go, but it didn’t hurt during my run.”

The Caldwell win should give Alley a boost in the pro rodeo Playoff Tour standings for qualification to the Cinch Playoffs at Puyallup, Washington, mid-September.

“I’m just sticking with the Playoff Tour Rodeos,” she said. “That was my goal from the get-go, when I left for the summer. Everyone wants to make the NFR, but this is my vacation!”

An NFR berth is something Alley would like to work toward in the future with Stiletto.

“Our ultimate goal is to get her to the NFR, not necessarily this year but maybe next year,” she said. “Just so that her babies are worth more in the future as well as Saucy’s babies.”

This coming week, Alley is out at Tremonton, Utah, on Wednesday, Kennewick, Washington on Thursday, Bremerton, Washington, on Friday and hopefully back to Kennewick for the short go on Saturday. It’s worth noting that Stiletto’s mother Saucy won both Tremonton and Bremerton for Alley in 2022.

Alley is in awe of how well Stiletto has taken to rodeo. The two-time futurity champion has won more than $200,000 in her first year of competition and nearly $50,000 of it has come against older horses at professional rodeos.

“She’s handled the rodeos amazingly,” said Alley. “Nothing bothers her. She loves the crowd. She’s fine with the hauling. I actually think she’s put on weight and done better out here on the road than she did all spring at the futurities where she was stalled for weeks at a time. Her confidence is just through the roof.”

Designer Leap To Heaven & Brian Wheeler Mega Fast in Jackson

By Tanya Randall

Barrel horse trainer and farrier Brian Wheeler had no intentions of competing at The Mega this year. Yet, his last minute decision to go paid off handsomely with a $9,975 victory aboard Designer-Leap-To-Heaven (“Penny”), owned by the Matthews family’s Mission Ranch in Wynne, Arkansas.

“The Mega has always been good to me,” said Wheeler, who won his first title there 2011 aboard SX Dr Peacharita. “I was tickled. My whole goal going up there was to work on a few things and get her ready to go to the Indiana Futurity and Breeders Challenge in September.”

After a solid start to barrel racing career with a BFA Juvenile Championship and earning a reserve title at the Betty Leek Memorial Futurity, Penny got a seven week break after the Royal Crown in Guthrie, Oklahoma at the end of May. After three weeks of conditioning, Wheeler took the mare to Tunica, Mississippi, for a two-day show, for her first runs back.

“She was a little rusty,” Wheeler said of Penny’s performance in Tunica. “That’s how I ended up taking her to The Mega. I really hadn’t planned on taking her up there.”

Penny missed the 1D money by two spots in the first round with a 14.198 and was sixth in the second round with a 14.122. In the Finals, Penny was the fastest of five sub-14 second runs that day.

“She made, to me, the same three runs, except the last day she tightened up the second barrel some. She just ran. She flew,” said Wheeler, who added that Penny’s speed sometimes gets her into trouble.

“Then you have to handle her too much,” he noted. “That last day I hardly had to touch the reins at the second and third barrel.”

Wheeler said the only downside to winning The Mega was knowing how badly his significant other Blaise Bercegeay wanted to win it.

“She loves The Mega and has always wanted to win it,” he said. “I felt like she had the horse to do it this year and she fell down. I lucked up and won it.

“It’s kind of funny. She’s been thinking about and prepping for The Mega for about three weeks, and I promise you on Monday, Tuesday night I wasn’t even planning on taking my horse up there.”

Wheeler figured that his horse would clock a 14.2, 14.3, which is a good time in the coliseum in Jackson, Mississippi, but usually is the crack between the 1D and 2D money.

“The last couple of times I’ve taken my colts there, that’s what I’ve run on them,” he said. “I kind of felt like that was what my horse was going to do. I always think about the money, and if you run 14.2s and .3s, you can’t win any money most of the time.”

Penny’s win at The Mega pushes her career earnings past the $150,000 mark. The 4-year-old mare by NFR qualifier and IPRA Champion Heavenly Firewater is out of Designer Ruby, by Designer Red. She’s a three-quarter sister to National Finals Rodeo qualifier Hell On The Red (“Reddy”), ridden by Kylie West.

Like Reddy, Penny was a bit of a handful to train, but Wheeler said the mare has “mellowed out pretty good.

“I think, by far, she’s the best 4-year-old that I’ve ever had,” he said, “but she’s missed opportunities to do stuff at some places that I thought she should do really well at. I took her to three or four small little futurities with 30 to 40 horses and she couldn’t get a check. It’s wild. It’s like she knows when it’s a bigger deal and pays more. It’s like riding a different horse.”

If you are fond of a horse and wish to do him a real favor - train him well. Teach him good manners, good habits, both in the stable and under the saddle. You need never worry about the future of such horse if for any reason, you may have to part with him. You assure him of friends wherever he goes. Perhaps the greatest kindness you can do any horse is to educate him well.

Teton Ridge Expands Partnership with PRCA for 2024-2025 National Finals Rodeo

In addition to the presenting sponsorship Teton Ridge will have a larger footprint within the NFR Fan Zone at the Thomas & Mack Arena and produce the "Official NFR Pre-Show" which will air live on Teton Ridge's digital channels. Featuring some of the top talent and celebrities of the industry, the pre-show will take fans on a unique viewing experience each night with guest interviews, recaps of the action, behind the scenes moments with the athletes and a look ahead on the leaderboard.

"Working alongside the PRCA and Las Vegas Events (LVE) to preserve and enhance this treasured national sporting event is so important to our team at Teton Ridge," said Deirdre Lester, CEO of Teton Ridge. "In addition to celebrating the history and traditions of the Western lifestyle overall, their team shares in our mission to grow the popularity and reach of rodeo sports so that they are thriving for many generations to come. We look forward to this renewed partnership and integrating into added new avenues and fan platforms all while celebrating the champions of our industry."

In an effort to bring even more rodeo content to fans worldwide, Teton Ridge and PRCA will partner with ProRodeo Films to aid in the distribution of archival footage across new digital outlets. Teton Ridge-owned Pro Fantasy Rodeo (PFR) will become the "Official Fantasy Partner" of ProRodeo. With more than $6 million and 2,000 buckles awarded to fans PFR is the leader in the western fantasy gaming space. Followers and fans will have the action brought right to their phones during the two weeks in Las Vegas with just under half a million dollars in cash and prizes on the line for the NFR "Big Game."

"The National Finals Rodeo is the premier championship event in western sports and the PRCA is proud to continue our partnership with Teton Ridge, a leader in western entertainment," said Tom Glause, CEO PRCA. "Our membership and our fans will benefit from these opportunities and a growing emphasis on showcasing our sport."

The NFR, which has called Las Vegas home since 1985, is a culmination of more than 600 PRCA-sanctioned events within the regular season. Spanning the course of two weeks, top-ranked athletes in the world standings who have risen to the top of their disciplines throughout the year, compete for the highly coveted championship gold buckles at the heralded year-end event.

Teton Ridge first partnered with the esteemed event in 2021 just months after acquiring The American Rodeo. With a rejuvenated commitment to expanding Western sports and elevating them to global proportions, the enhanced partnership with PRCA

HEADIN' FOR HOME

by Sherry Morrison // Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

Years ago, we went on vacation with friends to Cancun! Karen and I decided we'd like to try to kayak on the ocean... we are both land lovers. To say that it was a disaster would be an understatement!

We could both swim but we had no experience with sea worthy vehicles. We'd get out about 6 FEET, wreck, splash and roll up on the beach, then lay there and laugh. After 25 tries, our husbands came to help. They got us in and shoved us off and away we went!

Did you know that you can shipwreck your faith? I Tim. 1:18-20 tells us how we can do that. It's when we are strong for a while in faith, and then reject it. When we do that, we're shipwrecked.

We must stay strong in our faith, even in the face of difficult circumstances. And, if we fail, we get up and keep pushing back out there!

It's so worth the effort. Where faith is concerned, I can guarantee that you won't have sand in every orifice...
